containing information about joining the meeting.*

BRIEF DESCRIPTION:

Many families are struggling financially and the Child Tax Credit is an opportunity to help them cover their expenses, especially as children in our community have been back in school during these difficult times. To help address the situation, we are engaging with the White House and Treasury Department to assist in enrolling eligible families in the Child Tax Credit, with a particular focus on families that may not usually file taxes and may be in need of financial support.

PRESENTERS:

Chanan Weissman

Liaison to the American Jewish Community, The White House

Josh Dickson

*Deputy Director, The White House
Office of Faith-Based Initiatives*

Thomas West

Deputy Assistant Secretary, The U.S. Department of the Treasury

So please join us as we partner with the White House and the Treasury Department, along with the Jewish Federations of North America, the Orthodox Union and the Rabbinical Alliance, to offer a one-hour training to help you and your families, institutions and communities learn more about the Child Tax Credit and learn how you can help those who are eligible to enroll in the program and its benefits.

The session will provide an overview of the Child Tax Credit and walk through the Non-Filer Portal to show everyone how they can best guide members of their community enroll in this vital aid. Experts estimate the new Child Tax Credit has the potential to cut child poverty in half. It provides the largest such tax credit ever and critical relief to the largest number of working families ($3,000 per child 6-17 years old and $3,600 per child under 6 years old).
